Teacher's Pet

In Mrs. Harper's fifth-grade class, Pip was known as the 'teacher's pet.' She always did everything the teacher asked, was the first to raise her hand, and always turned in her homework on time. Mrs. Harper adored Pip, often praising her for her hard work and enthusiasm.

One sunny Monday morning, a new student named Lexi arrived. Lexi quickly proved to be even better than Pip. She achieved better grades, raised her hand faster, and always did whatever the teacher asked. Mrs. Harper started praising Lexi, which made Pip feel a pang of jealousy she had never felt before. Day by day, Pip's frustration grew. She couldn't understand how Lexi was so perfect at everything. One day, after school, Pip decided to follow Lexi to find out her secret. She made sure to stay far enough behind so Lexi wouldn't notice her.

Lexi walked quickly through the streets, finally stopping in front of a cosy little house. Pip hid behind a tree, watching closely. To her astonishment, she saw Lexi look around to make sure no one was watching, then suddenly transform into a pet dog! Lexi, now a fluffy golden retriever, trotted up the steps and entered the house through a small doggy door.

Pip was stunned. She rubbed her eyes, wondering if she was dreaming. But it was real. Lexi, the perfect student, was actually a pet dog!
